

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES

Spanish & Portuguese

DSP Alumni Series: The Job Market in Academia

Sponsored by the Hispanic & Lusophone Linguistics Working Group in collaboration with the Literary & Cultural Studies Working Group

LOCATION:

Zoom Meeting ID:
87099254407
Passcode: hllwg

April 19, 2021

TIME:

2-3pm (Arizona time)

Join us for a panel discussion with our 2020 alumni about their experiences on the job market and the importance of maintaining a supportive community. Bring specific questions or concerns you may have about navigating this step in an academic career.

Adolfo Béjar Lara

State University of New York at New Paltz

Adolfo Béjar Lara is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Languages, Literatures & Cultures at State University of New York at New Paltz. His areas of research include Latin American and Latinx literary and cultural studies, border and migration studies and postcolonial and critical theory.

Mariela López Velarde

Seattle University

Mariela López Velarde is an Assistant Professor of Spanish in the Department of Modern Languages & Cultures at Seattle University. Her main research interests are in second language acquisition, bilingualism, experimental phonology, L2 speech perception and production, and L2 processing.

Miriam Rodríguez-Guerra

Lawrence University

Miriam Rodríguez-Guerra is an Assistant Professor of Spanish in the Spanish Department at Lawrence University in Wisconsin. Her major research interests are in Phonology, Speech Sciences, Bilingualism and Acquisition of Spanish as a Heritage Language.