Mood variation among Spanish-English bilinguals in Southern Arizona: cross-dialectal continuities and methodological considerations

Isabella Calafate de Barros, University of Arizona

Brian Gravely

University of Arizona

Brian is currently a Visiting Assistant Professor at the University of Arizona. His research in syntax deals with agreement phenomena, mainly cliticization and differential object marking. He also works with diachronic phenomena from a formal perspective with a focus on incorporating empirical and theoretical notions from child language acquisition in order to explain both canonical and non-canonical grammar change.

Isabella Calafate de Barros

Hispanic Linguistics, University of Arizona

Isabella is a PhD candidate in Hispanic Linguistics at the University of Arizona. Her main research interests are in the fields of Sociolinguistics and Language Contact, with an emphasis on US Spanish. She has been working more specifically with language variation and change, language contact phenomena, and also critical pedagogical approaches in Spanish heritage language education.
